Ex-cop gets 3 years

Peter Hodson was caught in 2010 selling drugs on the job during a sting operation

▶ Defence lawyer Vincent Michaels addresses the media Thursday outside Vancouver provincial court on Main Street after former VPD cop Peter Hodson was sentenced to three years in jail.

Former Vancouver police officer Peter Hodson, who pleaded guilty to drug trafficking while on duty, was sentenced Thursday to three years in a federal prison.

The 32-year-old former University of B.C. basketball player was arrested and fired from the Vancouver Police Department in April 2010 following a sting operation by his own force.

The father of four pleaded guilty to three charges last November, including drug trafficking and breach of trust.

"Your remarkable fall from grace is a burden you will have to carry with you for the rest of your life," provincial court Judge Gregory Rideout told Hodson before reading the sentence.

The judge stressed Hodson abused his power and exploited vulnerable Downtown Eastside residents, with some of the drug deals done while he was driving his police cruiser.

His lawyer, Vincent Michaels, had asked for a two-year conditional sentence to be served under house arrest, while the Crown was seeking three and a half years.

Hodson's wife Sarah burst into tears when her husband was handed his sentence. More than 30 of Hodson's supporters packed the court, some of whom got into a scuffle with media outside the courthouse as they tried to shield the disgraced cop's wife and get her into a waiting SUV.

Crown lawyer Joe Bellows said the judge didn't seem to buy Hodson's thrill-seeking defence but that he was more persuaded by the Crown's submission that Hodson was in it for the money.

"It's not a harsh sentence but a fit sentence," Bellows said outside court.

Hodson was given 21 days off his sentence for time already served.

Jobs plan comments

What people say about Premier Clark's job strategy:

Adrian Dix
LEADER OF THE B.C. NDP

"This plan offers nothing in the way of training and education so people can pursue their aspirations and dreams. We all want the economy to succeed, but this is extremely disappointing."

Jim Sinclair
PRESIDENT OF THE B.C. FEDERATION OF LABOUR

"In the last three years, our province has lost more than 62,000 full-time jobs, but the plan announced today by Christy Clark doesn't put people back to work or create new jobs for young British Columbians. All that Clark and the B.C. Liberals seem to know how to do is cut taxes for big corporations."

Greg D'Avignon
PRESIDENT OF THE BUSINESS COUNCIL OF B.C.

"The B.C. government is emphasizing the priorities that need to be addressed to move our economy forward: investing in infrastructure, ideas and skills, and expanding trade relations with key markets for our goods and services."

Gavin Dirom
PRESIDENT OF THE ASSOCIATION OF MINERAL EXPLORATION B.C.

"Based on high commodity prices, our natural mineral potential, and proximity to Asian markets, B.C. is experiencing a modern-day gold rush built on safe, responsible and successful exploration. These new mines potentially represent ... 10,000 new jobs over the next 10 years."

New markets, mines key to job growth: Clark

Forestry, mining and natural gas cited as sectors best positioned to open B.C. markets ◐ Emphasis on finding 'new dollar' from Asia

CHELSEA ALTICE
VANCOUVER@METRONEWS.CA

Premier Christy Clark wants B.C. to be in the top two provinces in GDP growth by 2015 — a central target for her Canada Starts Here: The B.C. Jobs Plan, which she officially announced Thursday.

But Clark was unwilling to put an estimate on the total number of direct jobs that would be created from the plan.

"It's not responsible to come up with phoney numbers," Clark said.

Clark was confident that job creation is viable for B.C. industries by opening markets to overseas investment, especially to China and India.

"B.C. has a wealth of intelligence and natural resources that the world is hungry for," Clark said.

Mining was one of the sectors Clark proposed to expand by opening eight new B.C. mines by 2015, developing infrastructure, and easing red-tape policies.

"Sometimes government needs to get out of the way," she said on the proposal of opening an office to deal with approval delays.

"It might be a yes, it might be a no, but the process needs to be faster," she said.

First Nations were not ignored on the agenda for creating jobs.

The plan proposes to establish an Aboriginal Business and Investment Council that will partner companies with business initiatives in First Nations communities.

Clark emphasized that the program will be largely funded by private investment, not taxes.

Bidding farewell to Empire Field

Saturday's Caps game marks end of facility Temporary stadium offered nostalgic experience

MATT KIELTYKA
@METRONEWS.CA

Equal parts new beginning and a trip down memory lane, Empire Field returns to the annals of history at the end of Saturday's Vancouver Whitecaps clash with the Seattle Sounders.

The 27,500-seat temporary stadium was erected on the same Hastings Park grounds as the historic Empire Stadium that hosted the Lions and Whitecaps from 1954 to 1983.

And though it was an entirely different building that produced its own historical moments, such as the Whitecaps' first-ever Major League Soccer game, the setting of the stadium gave fans a first-hand taste of the venue that is ingrained in Vancouver sports history.

"It's been a very nostalgic experience," said Whitecaps president Bob Lenarduzzi, who grew up a block away from the original stadium and also played there professionally. "It's left a massive mark on Vancouver, from the miracle mile, the Beatles Lions and Whitecaps, (Empire) will have a permanent meaning to this city and will stand the test of time."

The B.C. Lions have played their final game at the stadium, and the Whitecaps are preparing to do the same this weekend before moving to the newly renovated BC Place.

For Whitecaps fans, the team's time at Empire has given supporters a chance to pay homage to generations past.

"Empire is our ancestral home and it was neat to revisit that," said John Knox, the president of the Southsiders supporters' club. "It gave us a taste of the experience our parents and their parents had when going to matches in Vancouver."

While all eyes will be on the move to BC Place, Lenarduzzi and Knox hope fans take a moment to look back as well.

Ex-premier sees a home for all in 2050

Vancouver will be the first city in North America to abolish homelessness, former premier Mike Harcourt predicted Thursday.

Harcourt sat down with Gordon Price, a former Vancouver city councillor and the current director of the city program at Simon Fraser University, for the ninth instalment of the "City in 2050" series on the issues of regional land use.

One of the solutions the two discussed was creating housing for the chronically homeless.

Harcourt said Vancouver has managed to get away from what he likes to call the "North American planning disease," where the only solution to a growing population is increasing the number of downtown car lanes.

"Being sustainable is essential," said Harcourt. "If you're not a sustainable city, you're not competitive."

Vancouver, he stated, has made three major decision flaws in the areas of housing affordability, drugs and crime, and rapid transit.

If different decisions had been made when planning, housing would be more affordable to more of the population, Harcourt said.

The creation of metro police and fire departments would mean that there would never be an issue of who covers which area and that drugs and crime would decrease.

Vancouver should have made a faster move when switching from streetcars to rapid transit, said Harcourt, adding TransLink is respected internationally.

Say no to Bush: Group

A group called Lawyers Against the War is urging the City of Surrey to cancel a speech by former U.S. president George W. Bush.

Gail Davidson of the group said Bush shouldn't be welcomed into Canada, let alone speak at the Surrey Regional Economic Summit on Oct. 20.

Davidson isn't sure if her group will protest at the event, and a summit official said security will be left to the RCMP and the U.S. Secret Service.

The event is sold out, with 500 people paying $600 each. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Riot warning denied

The Vancouver Police Department is defending itself against reports that it had prior information about a possible riot in June.

The department refutes reports that a senior official with the Liquor Control and Licensing Board told the department about growing crowds, high levels of intoxication and some violence following an earlier game.

The force says the reports are based on a Freedom of Information request sought from the board about liquor-store closures on the last day of the cup final. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Man's body recovered

The body of 24-year-old Christopher Vang has been recovered by search-and-rescue crews after fishermen spotted him near the Vedder River.

Vang, an Abbotsford resident, was swept away while fishing on the Fraser River Sept. 12.

An extensive search effort was conducted but crews could not locate Vang's body and he was presumed dead.

News in brief

Three times unlucky

ROBBERY. Abbotsford police say a Subway restaurant has been involved in three armed robberies this month, the most recent occurring when a gun-wielding suspect robbed the restaurant Wednesday night.

The location on McMillan Road was also robbed on Sept. 4 and 6.

Police say it's too early to say whether the same suspect is responsible, but they admit the pattern is consistent. METRO

Hospital upgrades

REVAMP. The aging electrical infrastructure and elevators at St. Paul's Hospital will be replaced by way of a $17.2-million investment announced by the provincial government Thursday.

The hospital, built in 1894, has been showing its age with a temporary power outage in February, which required a $1-million solution, as well as frequent slow or out-of-order elevator service. METRO

Plan approved

INVESTMENT. The City of Vancouver has approved its 2012-2014 Capital Plan, which will see the city invest $702 million in community facilities, parks and open spaces, housing, public safety, transportation, utilities, and public works and infrastructure.

Highlights of the plan include $18 million to maintain and rebuild existing affordable housing and $36 million for parks — including two new turf fields at Empire Field. METRO

Diving to save sharks

Diver calls for an end to shark hunting He intends to do a dive around the world every year

▶ Scott Cassell finishes his dive and emerges from the water on Cabrillo Beach in California.

Even though a world record was not broken, a 30-mile dive attempt is still considered a success for an explorer.

In less than 12 hours, combat/commercial diver Scott Cassell and his team, which included strong Vancouver support, completed a dive Saturday from Catalina Island to Cabrillo Beach, San Pedro, in California.

Unfortunately, due to technical complications and a near-drowning experience, he had to resurface midway through the dive.

"We didn't get the world record," said Cassell, "but that's not the reason I did this. It was all about the sharks."

Cassell has been receiving many complaints about his mission for two reasons: He did not end up breaking the world record, and the distance he actually travelled was only about 18 miles.

Explaining, Cassell said that because water is much denser than air and he was travelling through a strong current, the dive equates to a 30-mile journey.

Surviving an underwater seizure and extreme dehydration from swallowing so much salt water during technical complications was good enough for him.

Cassell was focused on the big picture: The decreasing shark population. Throughout the entire dive, not a single shark was seen.

"In 20 years, 90 per cent of the shark population has been killed off," said Cassell. "Extinction is just years away."

According to Cassell, there would be an explosion of imbalance in the ocean if the predators were gone.

"It is imperative that the shark population is restored for human survival," said Cassell. "The last time I checked, survival of the human species is good for the economy."

The legal impact of a serial killer

Notorious killer Clifford Olson's legacy to linger long after his death, according to experts

NICK DIDLICK/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Clifford Olson in 1981.

Though mention of child sex-slayer Clifford Olson will inspire shudders for decades to come, his impact on the Canadian legal world is likely to leave an equally deep impression.

Legal experts say Olson, who is dying of cancer, largely inspired changes to the law that eliminate any chance of early parole for murderers and cut off old-age benefits for those behind bars.

Police also say frustrations in solving his case spurred the eventual creation of a homegrown computer tool for tracking violent offenders.

Olson, one of Canada's most notorious and reviled criminals, has been transferred from prison to a Montreal hospital and may have only days to live.

He murdered two children and nine youths in the early 1980s.

"Even within the realm of first-degree murderers, his crimes were particularly unusual and horrific," said Neil Boyd, a criminologist at Simon Fraser University.

It was that devilish persona, utter lack of remorse, and inclination to taunt the families of his victims that put pressure on the then-Liberal government to tighten a provision that offered murderers the prospect of early parole.

The maximum penalty for murder is life in prison with no chance of full parole for 25 years.

But under the "faint hope" clause offenders could apply for parole eligibility after 15 years.

As the price of gold reached a record high, the Better Business Bureau warned sellers across B.C. to beware of scammers hoping to rip off people cashing in. Prices for the precious metal have soared over $1,700 an ounce, and BBB President Lynda Pasacreta says that she's seen a corresponding increase in people falling victim to unscrupulous buyers. "We've noticed that, especially in the online world, people are sending in their gold, and then they're either being disappointed with the price they're being quoted or they're not hearing anything -- [the gold] just kind of disappears," she told CTV News. "The BBB is currently handling 19 complaints against a single gold-buying company in mainland B.C." There are no complaints about J&M.

Cage-fighting kids prompt uproar

Online video shows English boys grappling in demonstration bout
Police say no charges will be laid

Footage of two slender boys wrestling in a cage in front of a cheering crowd in a British social club drew harsh condemnation Thursday from government officials and children's advocates who blasted the match as barbaric.

The eight-year-old and nine-year-old wore no protective padding or headgear, and at one point one was shown crying.

Politicians and medical experts expressed alarm and police launched an investigation after video was posted on the Internet of the Sept. 10 fight at Greenlands Labour Club, a bar and social club in Preston, northwest England.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

'It's immoral'

Some British cage-fighting advocates said images of young boys fighting were bad publicity for a sport trying to shed a brutal reputation and move into the mainstream.

- "It's not illegal, it's immoral," said Mark Lyons, head of the British Cage Fighting Association.
- "If it was in a gymnasium or a club environment, it's quite acceptable, but in an environment where there's alcohol involved and scantily clad women knocking about, it's not the ideal situation for any child," he said.

Study finds Canada needs a realistic approach to marijuana

New guidelines endorsed by the Canadian Public Health Association

Canada's existing public health approach to cannabis use is unrealistic and should be adjusted to reflect the way the system approaches alcohol, a new article suggested yesterday.

The piece, published in the Canadian Journal of Public Health, concluded the high prevalence of marijuana use throughout the country requires public health practitioners to adjust their thinking around the substance.

Current attitudes towards cannabis use are too rigid to be effective in the current environment, co-author Benedikt Fischer said, adding more than 10 per cent of the adult population and about a third of young adults admit to using the drug in the past year.

"There's a lot of harm to be prevented when you have ... up to three million users in the country who are actively using this drug."
BENEDIKT FISCHER, ARTICLE CO-AUTHOR

Current practices advocating for total abstinence are unrealistic given the drug's widespread popularity, and less tolerant than public health positions towards alcohol, tobacco and even injection drugs, he said.

Fischer said the system should instead adopt a more conciliatory position, urging people to modify their behaviours and reduce their personal health risks.

SEAN KILPATRICK/THE CANADIAN PRESS

The "lower-risk cannabis use guidelines" tabled in the article are modelled on the public health approach used to keep alcohol consumption in check over the years, said Fischer, research chair in applied public health at Simon Fraser University.

"I think alcohol is a really good model, and in fact the model I look to a lot," Fischer said in a telephone interview from Vancouver.

Although abstinence from cannabis is still the safest approach, Fischer said users can take many steps to mitigate the drug's harmful effects.

Limiting the frequency and intensity of cannabis use can have significant long-term health benefits, Fischer said.

Brain scans to decode dreams?

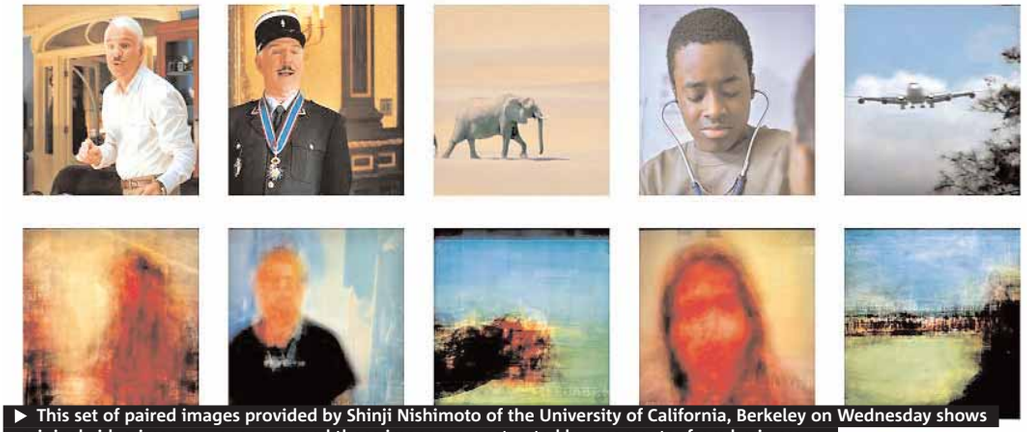
- Study focused on parts of brain that respond to shapes and movement rather than parts that identify objects
- Computer was fed 18 million one-second YouTube clips and asked to predict brain activity evoked by each

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, BERKELEY, SHINJI NISHIMOTO/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS



▶ This set of paired images provided by Shinji Nishimoto of the University of California, Berkeley on Wednesday shows original video images, upper row, and those images reconstructed by a computer from brain scans.

It sounds like science fiction: While volunteers watched movie clips, a scanner watched their brains. And from their brain activity, a computer made rough reconstructions of what they viewed.

Scientists speculate such an approach might, one day, be able to reveal dreams and hallucinations.

It might help stroke victims or others who have no other way to communicate, said Jack Gallant, a neuroscientist at the University of California, Berkeley, and co-author of the paper.

He believes such a technique could eventually reconstruct a dream well enough to be recognizable. But the experiment dealt with scenes being viewed through the eyes at the time of scanning, and it's not clear how it would apply to scenes generated by the brain instead, he said.

The paper, published online Thursday by the journal Current Biology, reports results from the brain scans of three co-authors, who had to lie motionless in an MRI machine for hours and stay alert as they stared at a tiny dot, Gallant said. The machine was used for a technique called functional MRI, or fMRI. Unlike ordinary MRI, which reveals anatomy, fMRI shows brain activity.

The first task was to teach the computer how different parts of each subject's brain responded to scenes of moving objects.

Participants stared at a dot to keep their eyes still as movie clips lasting 10 to 20 seconds unfolded in the background. That went on for two hours as the MRI machine tracked activity in their brains.

The quality could be improved by better techniques to blend human forms, as well as a bigger storehouse of moving images, Gallant said.

Still, the overall results are "one of the most impressive demonstrations of the scientific knowledge of how the visual system works," said Marcel Just, director of the Center for Cognitive Brain Imaging at Carnegie Mellon University.

Payments for Bloody Sunday

Britain says it will offer compensation payments to the families of people killed and wounded on Bloody Sunday, a nearly 40-year-old massacre by British paratroopers in Northern Ireland that fueled Irish Catholic support for the IRA.

Thirteen people were killed and 14 wounded on Jan. 30, 1972, in Londonderry when the soldiers opened fire on a Catholic crowd demonstrating against Britain's detention without trial of Irish Republican Army suspects.

Nobody has ever been charged over the 13 killings.

Dugard sues over 18-year ordeal

Jaycee Dugard is suing the U.S. government for failing to monitor the convicted sex offender who kidnapped her and held her captive for 18 years.

The complaint says the failures by federal parole officers in the handling of Phillip Garrido's case are as "outrageous and inexcusable as they are numerous."

Garrido was on parole when he kidnapped Dugard in 1991. He fathered her two children while holding her captive.

Dugard says she will donate the money to her nonprofit to help other victims.

Candidate fighting ban on face coverings ◐ Most support policy

Kenza Drider's posters for the French presidential race are ready to go, months before the official campaign begins. There she is, the "freedom candidate," pictured standing in front of a line of police — a forbidden veil hiding her face.

Drider declared her candidacy yesterday, the same day a French court fined two women who refuse to remove their veils. All three are among a group of women mounting an attack on the law that has banned the garments from the streets of France since April, and prompted similar moves in other European countries.

"When a woman wants to maintain her freedom, she must be bold," Drider told The Associated Press in an interview.

President Nicolas Sarkozy strongly disagrees, and says the veil imprisons women.

With Islam the second religion in France and the numbers of faithful growing, there are worries that veiled Muslim women could compromise the nation's secular foundations and undermine gender equality and women's dignity. There are also concerns that wearing full veils could open the door to a radical form of Islam.

CRTC RULING

Watching TV to get even easier

Canadian consumers can expect more choice and possibly better prices when watching shows online or on mobile devices now that their TV providers can't keep content exclusive.

This week's CRTC ruling means that any program broadcast on TV, including hockey games and other live events, must be made available to cable, satellite and wireless competitors under reasonable terms.

"No matter how you look at this, I see this as being consumer friendly," telecom analyst Troy Crandall said Thursday.

Consumers will need only one provider for content across all their screens — from conventional TVs and smartphones to tablets and desktop or portable computers, he said.

▶ Facebook CEO Mark Zuckerberg talks about Timeline during the f8 conference in San Francisco on Thursday.

Zuckerberg announces next wave in popular networking site Latest idea styled after scrapbooking

Facebook is dramatically redesigning its users' profile pages to create what CEO Mark Zuckerberg says is a "new way to express who you are."

Zuckerberg introduced the Facebook "timeline" Thursday in San Francisco at the company's f8 conference for some 2,000 entrepreneurs, developers and journalists. The event is also being broadcast to more than 100,000 online viewers.

The timeline is reminiscent of an online scrapbook, with the most important photos and text that users have shared on Facebook over the years.

It's Facebook's attempt at growing from an online hangout to a homestead, where people express their real selves and merge their online and offline lives.

The timeline can go back to include years before Facebook even existed, so users can add photos and events from, say 1995 when they got married or 1970 when they were born.

Zuckerberg took the stage after a humorous skit, in which Saturday Night Live actor Andy Samberg impersonated him.

"We are making it so you can connect to anything you want. Now you don't have to like a book; you can just read a book. You don't have to like a movie; you can just watch a movie."
MARK ZUCKERBERG
FACEBOOK CEO

The real Mark Zuckerberg looked more at ease than he has in past events, suggesting he is growing into his role as the face of Facebook.

But he quickly got down to business as he introduced the timeline as "the story of your life — all your stories, all your apps and a new way to express who you are."

Expanding on the popularity of its "like" buttons, Zuckerberg told the crowd Facebook will now let users connect to things even if they don't want to "like" them.

Clinton book says get 'Back to Work'

For Bill Clinton, it is again the economy, stupid.

The former president has finished writing a new book, Back to Work, which comes out in November.

He called the 200-page book a guide to the current economic slump, how it was caused and how to recover.

"I actually started thinking about it (the book) after the 2010 election, because I did 130 events, and after every event, people would come up to me and say, 'I didn't know this,' 'I didn't know that,'" Clinton said.

"It was like the 21st-century version of the 1994 election, in which there was this enormously effective campaign against government, as if the government were responsible for all of this."

Back to Work is Clinton's third book since leaving office. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Netflix getting 'like' button

PAUL SAKUMA/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ Netflix CEO Reed Hastings

Canadians are getting a first crack at a Netflix feature that ties into Facebook.

Netflix users will soon be able to share what they're watching with their Facebook friends, or browse through what others have liked.

The feature is expected to go online as soon as today in Canada and in Latin America, but not in the United States.

Netflix says it has some legal work to do before the feature is available in the U.S., because of a law that may prohibit the sharing of its users' viewing habits.

TSX takes a tumble

Fear of a global recession sent the Toronto stock market tumbling Thursday, plunging about four per cent after the U.S. central bank delivered a blunt warning about worsening economic prospects.

The S&P/TSX composite index dropped 392.5 points or 3.3 per cent to 11,562.51, the lowest close since Aug. 24, 2010. The junior TSX Venture Exchange lost 105.4 points or 6.2 per cent to 1,598.38.

The steep decline followed an assessment Wednesday from the U.S. Federal Reserve that there are "significant downside risks to the economic outlook."

Also overhanging markets was investor impatience with European officials to come up with a comprehensive plan for dealing with the government debt crisis.

Action needed to avoid crisis: Flaherty

Finance Minister Jim Flaherty is warning of a second financial meltdown on the scale of 2008 if action is not taken, saying he is frustrated by the lack of response from policy-makers.

The minister issued the alarm hours before flying to Washington to meet with his G20 colleagues in an 11th-hour effort to avert a crisis.

If the issue of a Greek default is not dealt with, "we'll run into the kind of crisis situation that we ran into in October 2008, so one wants to get ahead of the issue rather than react to another crisis," he said.

Meanwhile, world leaders, including Prime Minister Stephen Harper, have sent an open letter to French President Nicolas Sarkozy, the G20 chairman, calling for strong action at the November Cannes Summit to help ensure global economic stability and growth.

Target's blunders continue

Demand for Missoni items rivalled that of year's busiest shopping day ◐ Buzz turns to frustration

Target is a victim of its own success.

The cheap-chic discounter drummed up so much hype around its exclusive, limited-time line by upscale Italian designer Missoni that its website crashed and was down most of the day on Sept. 13 when the collection was launched, angering customers.

More than a week later, some shoppers who bought the Missoni for Target line are posting on social media websites Facebook and Twitter that they won't shop at Target again because their online orders are being delayed — or worse, cancelled — by the retailer.

Target became the discount industry's darling by making it cool to buy stylish clothes and trendy decorations at the same place you pick up toothpaste and paper towels.

But recently, it has suffered from similar public-relations nightmares as its rival Wal-Mart Stores Inc. Earlier this year, Target had its first union election in what is seen as a precursor to more labour disputes nationwide.

Now, customers are blasting Target on websites like Twitter at a time when Americans worried about the economy are easily being influenced by what their friends say on social media websites.

PAUL SULLIVAN
METRO

It's that time of the week again, when we bring you the Metro List, the world's most authoritative review of hot topics around the water cooler:

1 REM disbands after 31 years as the rock critics' darlings. What else is there to do after losing your religion? Everybody hurts.

2 Meanwhile Neil Young says he's writing his memoir. Memoir? It was only yesterday that he burst on the scene with Everybody Knows This is Nowhere. Yesterday, as in May 14, 1969, to be precise. OMG, am I ever old.

3 Georgia executes convicted murderer Troy Davis despite intervention from the Pope, Jimmy Carter and P. Diddy. Wonder why they didn't listen?

4 Two and A Half Men starts the fall season with record ratings. Twenty-eight-point-seven-four million people have nothing better to do with their lives. Nothing is, er, lost as Ashton Kutcher and Charlie Sheen appear to be interchangeable morons.

5 Palestians go to the United Nations and asks for statehood. Can't hurt to ask.

6 In other asking news, the U.S. military finally abolishes Don't Ask, Don't Tell and all the gay generals stay in the closet.

7 Chaz Bono dances his way into respect on Dancing with the Stars. Don't mean a thing if you ain't got that swing. Not bad for a kid who started out as Chastity, the daughter of Sonny and Cher. You've come a long way, baby.

8 Loonie goes below par for the first time since January and drowns. Investors everywhere can relate as we all take a bath. Stocks hit a 13-month low bringing the year-to-date loss to 16.3 per cent. Even gold loses four per cent of its glitter. If this keeps up, I'm going to invest "all my money" in dog food stocks, as that's all retiring boomers will be able to afford to eat.

9 BieberWatch: It's a bad week for the future of the human race as Justin announces 'I want to be a young dad, by 25 or 26 I want to see myself, like, married or start looking for a family.' Maybe he can find one in a village in Africa. You know the same place where Madonna and Angelina get theirs. He also has his own perfume fragrance — eau de pablum. Just kidding! It's called Someday, as in someday I'll reach puberty.

Letters

Canadians should rejoice that a low-life criminal monster, Clifford Olson, is reportedly days away from kicking the bucket with terminal cancer, no compassion for this demented animal.

Should anyone feel sadness over the loss of a costly bottom-feeder serial child killer who should have been executed long ago? NO! This trash person has made a mockery of our Mounties, played the courts for fools and sucked taxpayers for millions during his 30 years of incarceration — a fitting end for this despicable hated human being.

There are many more like Olson in jail, including Paul Bernardo, Robert Pickton and Russell Williams who need to be turfed as people like these undesirables are taking us to the cleaners with the high costs to keep them alive in jail.

I do not think many would shed a tear for the passing of this slime.

This story is not about insulting good people suffering a malicious disease — cancer, it is about celebrating the end to a horrific human life who deserves no mercy.

Hey there butterfingers, you've got spam

If you're prone to mistyping email addresses, here's a new thing to worry about: you could be a target for spammers trying to sell you a dream vacation or a diet product by pretending to be one of your friends.

In a clever twist on spam, some websites with names that are confusingly similar to legitimate sites have been set up to reply to any mail sent to them. The responses are framed as out-of-office replies, but sneak in mentions of a new product or service.

Here's a real-life example of how it works: An Associated Press reporter accidentally sent a message to a "verizonwireless.co" address instead of the proper ".com" and got this response, ostensibly from his contact "tom": "I am out of office right now on a my (sic) dream vacation and will get back to you when I return ... You should check this site to see how I scored the best travel deal for my trip." That's followed by a link to a site that advertises luxury resorts.

The sites are registered by "typo-squatters," whose goal is to make money from advertising as people visit the sites after mistyping an address in their browser. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Synopsis

- Pitt plays Billy Beane, the real-life General Manager of the Oakland A's. Faced with piecing together a pro team with a budget a fourth as large as the New York Yankees he breaks with tradition — using scouts, instinct and guts — to find a scientific method to build a team on the cheap. With a Yale trained economist (Jonah Hill) he creates sabermetrics, a combination of facts, figures and computer algorithms to recruit his team.
- Ratings:
  Richard: ⊕⊕⊕
  Mark: ⊕⊕⊕⊕

▶ Brad Pitt's acting is effortless in Moneyball.

A different ball game

Moneyball takes a potentially dry topic — baseball stats — and spices it up with Brad Pitt and Jonah Hill ◗ You don't have to be a sports fan to like this film

Reel Guys
RICHARD CROUSE & MARK BRESLIN
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Richard: Mark, I liked this movie. The synopsis sounds very dry, but so did The Social Network before you actually sat down and watched it. I thought Moneyball took what could be the dry subject of baseball stats and spiced it up with complex, interesting characters, a compelling human story while leaving the usual sport's movie clichés behind. What did you think?

Mark: I liked it, too. It's a sports movie for people who don't care about sports. What really struck me about it was that while most movies have heroes who believe in intuition and passion, the Brad Pitt character sees reason and science as the path to success. It's kind of a Revenge Of The Nerds story, except that Pitt couldn't look nerdy if he tried. Your comparison with The Social Network is apt, Richard, but Billy Beane is played as a much nicer person than Mark Zuckerberg.

RC: Maybe so, and better looking too. The movie moves at about half the speed of The Social Network but that's OK; we're not dealing with the fast moving world of cyber space here but the more relaxed pace of America's favourite pastime. It's a slow build, but the seventh inning stretch is exciting.

MB: Yes, two excellent set pieces towards the end of the movie: the rapid set of phone calls as players are swapped and dropped, and the montage of record breaking wins that come one after the other. But there's an elegiac tone of melancholy that permeates the picture. For a couple of outsiders who turn out to be right, Pitt and his crony, played admirably by Jonah Hill, seem to derive little pleasure from their victories. This is not a sports movie in which guys high five each other constantly. They're all a pretty gloomy bunch.

RC: This isn't a baseball movie and despite the game footage, it's not a sports movie either. Pitt and Hill, in a rare serious role, dominate the movie with their behind-the-scenes stories. Like The Social Network, Moneyball places the onus on the characters and not the technology that drives the story. We've seen baseball movies before, but we've never seen the game from this angle.

MB: And I can't say enough good things about Pitt's effortless acting or Jonah Hill's wonderful supporting work. He no longer needs the Apatow factory to pay his rent!

And the Oscar may go to... Monsieur Lazhar

Film deals with immigration, education and death

Philippe Falardeau's Monsieur Lazhar has been chosen as Canada's candidate for the 2012 Oscar race.

Telefilm Canada, which chairs the Oscar selection committee, said Wednesday the "outstandingly crafted film" will be submitted for consideration in the best foreign-language film category.

Monsieur Lazhar won the best Canadian feature prize at the recent Toronto International Film Festival and also picked up prizes at the Locarno International Film Festival.

"It made me feel very happy but dizzy at the same time because it's a long road," Falardeau told The Canadian Press on Wednesday when asked about his reaction to hearing the good news.

JEAN-CHRISTOPHE BOTT/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Philippe Falardeau

"People have to understand it's long process. I am not nominated at the Oscars. I am Canada's entry at the Oscars. But it's nice to see that people recognize the quality of the film and it's also a nice window for the launch of the film later on in Quebec."

Monsieur Lazhar is about an Algerian schoolteacher in Montreal who helps his students cope with the death of his predecessor, who committed suicide.

Telefilm Canada says the French-language feature was selected from among 34 eligible films.

Movie reviews

Abduction
Genre: Action
Director: John Singleton
Stars: Taylor Lautner, Lily Collins, Alfred Molina

Abduction is supposed to be Twilight third wheel Taylor Lautner's breakout role as not only an actor who can headline a film but also as an action star. Unfortunately, he picked a project that is poorly written and lazily executed. Lautner is a high school student whose work on a class project about missing persons leads him to a website featuring a photo of a familiar face: his own. Soon, a chain of events unfolds that leaves the people he thought were his parents dead and him and the girl next door (Lily Collins) on the run.

In theory, this should be a terse thriller. But instead, Abduction is a teen angst-ridden film. But any concerns about the quality of the movie certainly won't stop his rabid Twilight fans from showing up.

JOEL AMOS

Dolphin Tale
Genre: Drama
Director: Charles Martin Smith
Stars: Harry Connick Jr., Morgan Freeman ½
●●●½

A charming story about a young marine animal that was saved with the use of a prosthetic after losing its tail in a tragic accident, Dolphin Tale is as enriching and wholesome as a family movie comes.

But even with the weight of stars like Morgan Freeman, director Charles Martin Smith smartly allows the movie's subject and star to upstage the human actors and give the story added heft with her inspirational and awe-inspiring true story.

Genre: Action
Director: Gary McKendry
Stars: Jason Statham, Clive Owen, Robert De Niro
●●

It should be exciting, really, given the source material: British ex-military officer Ranulph Fiennes, supposedly true account of the SAS's dirty dealings in the Middle East in the 1980s. Stay with us now: The film follows a mercenary (Jason Statham) whose mentor (Robert De Niro) gets him tied up with an Omani oil magnate who wants three retired British soldiers killed because their covert meddling caused the deaths of his sons. But wait, there's more. Another retired British soldier (Clive Owen) is tasked by a shadowy secret society to keep the targets alive. It's... yeah.

Ultimately, Killer Elite is weighed down by its own moral ambiguity and self-seriousness.

The coke-fuelled antics of New York's after-hours scene is documented in Limelight, which shows how club owner Peter Gatien took on Rudolph Guliani in a pitched culture war. Detective Dee is a massive chopsocky epic/whodunit. International action star Andy Lau stars as the titular detective, assigned by a controversial Empress to investigate a series of spontaneous combustions. Exquisitely choreographed fight scenes pile up furiously, with the endless spectacle offering a nice distraction from the convoluted plot. Recounting the struggle of whistleblower Harry Markopolos and his 10-year attempt to expose Bernie Madoff's multibillion-dollar scandal, this highly-stylized documentary draws on noir-like black and white dramatizations that seemingly attempt to turn nerdy number-crunchers into Cold War killers. Instead, the device unnecessarily distracts and hyperbolizes a frightening and compelling tale of injustice. ● STEVE GOW

A battle with cancer leads screenwriter to pen film about his experiences starring real-life best friend Seth Rogen in role as... best friend

NED EHRBAR
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN HOLLYWOOD

HANDOUT

▶ As well as starring in 50/50 alongside Joseph Gordon-Levitt, left, Seth Rogen served as one of the film's producers.

Screenwriter Will Reiser looks back on his own battle with a rare form of spinal cancer in 50/50, with Joseph Gordon-Levitt standing in for him as Adam, a young radio producer dealing with a life-changing diagnosis.

But when it came to casting Adam's best friend, the obvious choice was Reiser's real-life best friend, Seth Rogen (who also serves as a producer on the film).

You were in the unique position of writing a character based on your best friend that would be played by that same best friend.

I'm really proud of the performance Seth gave. I think that he did a really great job. And I think a part of that is Joe — not to discredit Seth, but Joe is so real and so grounded that I think that it made it really easy for Seth to play off him. It was just a really relaxed set.

The character's not necessarily Seth, per se. It's sort of an extension of Seth. There are definitely elements of his personality that I incorporated. Like when we were that age, I was a neurotic mess, I worried about everything. I was really uptight, and Seth would just make fun of me. That was our dynamic, and that's very much true to Adam and Kyle.

And you're not a neurotic mess anymore?

I'm a much different person. It sounds cliché to say that, but I think going through that experience, writing about it, I think it brought me out of my shell a little bit. In the movie, with Joe and Seth's characters, it's not like they sit around and talk about their feelings. And that's very much how Seth and I were.

It wasn't like we dealt with it by talking about how we felt. We just made jokes. We just talked about the absurdity of it all. But the actual process of making the movie forced us to talk about those things. Maybe I was this way, maybe I did do certain things.

Maybe I did push my mother away and put pressure on other people when I was sick. It was very helpful just to see myself from a different point of view. It's incredibly therapeutic.

So why the title change from I'm With Cancer?

We tested that along with a bunch of other titles, and we just found that I'm With Cancer just kind of scared audiences away, just the idea of cancer. Which is interesting because our whole marketing campaign is really about being honest about it and not trying to hide.

I liked the idea of cancer being in the title. Because, you know, when I set out to write the movie, I really wanted to challenge the idea of what is acceptable to talk about in film.

Cancer is this kind of taboo subject, and it's almost like the movie can't be about cancer, it's got to be about something else and then cancer is just this plot point in the script. Whereas I really wanted it to be just a meditation on the experience of illness and just go through this journey with this character and really explore what it's all about.

It was hard for a few of us to let go of [I'm With Cancer] because we were all really attached to it, but 50/50 works.

Faris yearns to be flawed

Actress known for kooky, exaggerated roles longs to come down to earth

Takes on her first romantic comedy lead in What's Your Number?

NED EHRBAR

METRO WORLD NEWS IN HOLLYWOOD

HANDOUT

▶ Anna Faris stars in the romantic comedy What's Your Number?

Though she's well known for comedy, Anna Faris would argue that What's Your Number? is something of a departure for her.

"I had never really done a romantic comedy before," says the actress, who first rose to fame in the Scary Movie franchise.

"Usually I get offered these roles that are crazy and broad, that don't seem like very real characters. And this seemed like a very grounded character. And it was such a strong script."

The new film also marks the second time (after 2008's the House Bunny) that Faris has served as executive producer on one of her projects — but she doesn't think you should read too much into that.

"I came on as an executive producer, which really doesn't mean much. They pretend to ask your opinion," she says with a laugh. "Sometimes they listened and sometimes they didn't."

One of the areas where they apparently didn't listen to Faris was on her character's look.

"I had a look initially that I wanted to present as Ally. I wanted her to be a little chunky and a brunette and a little just sloppy — like unemployed, tennis shoes. But then there was a lot of disagreement about that element," she says.

"I understand that visually, it's fun to wear nice clothes and nice heels, and I get that she has a rich mom so that's how we justified her Prada shoes, but I don't know. I'm sort of yearning to play the sloppier characters and to play characters that are a little more real."

And it's becoming more likely to see those characters on screen, Faris is happy to say, thanks to the surge of female-fronted comedy led by Bridesmaids, the summer's surprise hit.

"Bridesmaids had women pooping in the streets. The world's our oyster now," she says, laughing proudly.

Where were you when...

20 years on, people still recall where they were when Nevermind landed ◗ Celebs share their stories of that

PAT HEALY
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN BOSTON

In a few months the baby on the cover or Nirvana's Nevermind album will be old enough to drink.

Although two decades have passed since it came out, no single album has shaken up the music industry and popular culture since. Seriously, radio stations that boast of being the cutting edge of rock are still playing this stuff. On Tuesday, Universal Music Enterprises is releasing several 20th anniversary reissues.

Some of the new mixes are so revealing and raw that songs you have been hearing for two decades sound brand new. Here we look back with some of the people who were close to the epicenter of Nirvana's Nevermind.

Bright Eyes singer Conor Oberst:
"My oldest brother and his friends would always watch MTV, and be hanging out. I remember walking in the room one day and they were all really excited about it, and I didn't really know what it was, but they turned up the TV, and everybody got quiet, and watched it. … I didn't know quite what to think of it, actually."

tUnE-yArDs singer Merril Garbus:
"Probably babysitting where the family had MTV, which we didn't. I thought the title was funny because of the deodorant. And good music is good music... Every one of my friends was very familiar with Nirvana's music. But I think generally I felt distant from that kind of rock 'n' roll. I was not cool, and I was probably listening to mid-'90s Michael Jackson and the oldies radio station instead of Nirvana."

Katie Holmes:
"I remember I was at my friend's house and she shared it with me and I was just blown away."

Jonah Hill:
"I remember so specifically the first time I heard Nirvana. My camp counselor — and I was like whatever age I was when Nevermind came out, so I was like seven or eight — was really into good rock music, and all kinds of music. He was actually a great influence on me, because he gave me all those records. He gave me the first Ween album. I was like eight! … And 'Nevermind,' I just put it on, and I can remember, like, where I was standing, what the room looked like, and everything. It was that memorable of an experience to hear it for the first time."

Director Guillermo del Toro:
"I was watching MTV in Mexico City and it came through a cable channel over there and I thought, 'That sounded unlike anything I had heard.' Because it was incredibly free and grungy, of course, but … emotionally shattering."

Fall TV guide: Top 5 must-see new series

The temperature is getting colder now If you feel like staying home in front of the TV, you'll have good company

ALL PHOTOS CONTRIBUTED

2 Broke Girls

Premise: Working gal (Kat Dennings) meets fallen socialite (Beth Behrs) in hipsterville, Brooklyn. Two girls from completely different economic and social worlds join forces to open a cupcake shop — one day, if they can save enough money from their current waitressing gigs.
Why we're watching: This totally enjoyable odd couple trades more hilariously crude one-liners than we would have ever expected on CBS.
(Mondays on Citytv).

New Girl

Premise: A socially awkward girl (Zooey Deschanel) who just got dumped moves in with three guys for a fresh start.
Why we're watching: As Jess, Deschanel embodies the everywoman — well, minus those adorable saucer eyes, killer bangs and gorgeous voice, maybe. She admits she's "not good at hiding her crazy" — she makes up songs, on the spot, and sings them out loud, often — and sees the good in most everything. We can't help but root for her and this sitcom.
(Tuesdays on Citytv).

Person of Interest

Premise: A mysterious billionaire (Michael Emerson) has built a machine that, using surveillance technology, can predict crimes before they happen. He enlists an ex-CIA agent (Jim Caviezel) to help.
Why we're watching: When executive producer J.J. Abrams does mystery and paranoia, we pay attention. Plus, we want to find out if Caviezel can take down a man by simply throwing him one of those intense death stares.
(Thursdays on Citytv).

Pan Am

Premise: The 1960s take flight through the eyes of the crew on a new Pan Am jet.
Why we're watching: Style gets top billing here — from the luxurious flight cabin to the gorgeous retro costumes — but there's substance to back it up, too, as the series delves into the cultural and political revolutions of the '60s. Why wouldn't you want to climb aboard?
(Premieres Sunday on CTV).

Suburgatory

Premise: A single dad (Jeremy Sisto) moves his teen daughter (Jane Levy) out of New York City for a shot at a "better life" in the 'burbs.
Why we're watching: There's a sweet Gilmore Girls vibe to the single parent-daughter relationship in Suburgatory — in this case, dad is the young, hip parent making sacrifices to do what's best for his kid. Actress Levy is our favourite newcomer of the fall.

That's the premise behind Person of Interest

AMBER RAY
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN NEW YORK

If you step out into a New York City street, you may as well be smiling — there's no doubt you're being filmed. It's the reality of a post-9-11, surveillance-heavy world, and a major inspiration behind the new J.J. Abrams crime thriller, Person of Interest.

"Someone tried to count (the number of cameras in NYC) a couple years ago, and the official tally was 'uncountable,'" says executive producer Jonathan Nolan, whose credits include the Dark Knight films (director Christopher is his brother). "I think we're all really aware these days of just how much information is kind of swirling around out there about us, about our friends, about everybody," he adds.

Person of Interest airs Thursday nights on Citytv

"What's missing in all of this — or at least we think is missing — is something that sifts through all of that information, a way in which that information actually becomes useful to people."

Enter The Machine.

Meet the cast

- Finch (Michael Emerson)
"I play a shadowy tech billionaire who's had some kind of transformative experience in his psychological life, and he's decided to dedicate himself to a justice mission," Emerson says.
- Reese (Jim Caviezel)
"He's former special forces CIA on the surface, but deep down, a guy who is searching for a purpose, and Finch seems to offer that," Caviezel says.
- Detective Carter (Taraji P. Henson)
"She served two tours in Iraq," Henson says. "She gets a little more emotionally involved with some of the people that she interacts with."

The invention of a mysterious billionaire, Finch (Michael Emerson), the government-commissioned, anti-terrorism Machine is capable of predicting when a crime will occur.

With the aid of a former CIA agent, Reese (Jim Caviezel), Finch plans to enact vigilante justice, which plays out on the show in a case-of-the-week format.

"We're at this very odd moment, kind of standing on the precipice of seeing what happens when you start harnessing all that information," Nolan says.

Scarily, he's referring to real-life as much as the world created on Person of Interest.

"This is not really a science fiction show," he says. "It's more science fact."

Pan Am takes viewers back to a time of luxury air travel

AMBER RAY
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN NEW YORK

Once upon a time, commercial air travel was glamorous, a luxury devoid of patdowns and tipsy with the promise of adventure — not to mention martinis. Harkening back to a day when the friendly skies were just that is the new drama, Pan Am.

Pan Am premieres Sunday night on CTV

"It's escapism at its best, at a time when, for a moment, the world kind of opened and embraced everywhere we were going," says star Mike Vogel, who plays a bright-eyed pilot flying his way up the company ladder.

The series takes full advantage of his metaphor — Pan Am, which is set in 1963, not only taps into the nostalgia of the industry with gorgeous costuming and set design and stories uninhibited by TSA regulations, but it also delves into the burgeoning cultural revolution of the era.

"For the stewardesses, there was this sense of excitement and freedom," says star Christina Ricci, whose bohemian character takes the gig as an opportunity to explore the world.

"The job allowed these women to have a freedom that they weren't really given in a regular sort of role in life at that time," she explains.

"Yes, they did have to pass through girdle checks and grooming checks, but by going through those things they were then allowed to travel freely and ... be in charge of their own lives."

- Producing what she knows: Pan Am producer Nancy Hult Ganis knew there were great stories to be mined out of a series centred on the heyday of the airline.
- She was so sure because she worked as a Pan Am stewardess in the late-1960s through the mid-'70s.
- "The experience opened the world to us and helped us understand and appreciate those different cultures and customs," she says.
- "(There were) a lot of funny fish out of water moments as we learned to navigate through different worlds."
- Thank you for choosing Pan Am: Though the airline that is synonymous with the jet age is defunct, a New England company now owns the rights to the Pan Am name and logo. Producers were able to negotiate a deal for their use on the series.

Olivia keeping quiet about her new boyfriend

Let the guessing games begin... Could it be Ryan Reynolds?

Olivia Wilde

Olivia Wilde is off the market.

When asked by Britain's OK magazine if she's dating anyone, the actress gives a simple response: "Yeah."

While she's not revealing the identity of her new suitor, she hints that he certainly knows how to impress her.

"I like it if the guy possesses creativity and doesn't take me to a boring restaurant or a boring whatever but comes up with an interesting location. I like to be surprised, for sure," she says.

Coincidentally, Wilde has been spotted spending time with Ryan Reynolds — and the pair looked anything but bored. METRO

Brad Pitt still trying to explain himself

Brad Pitt

At this point, Brad Pitt is probably sorry he opened his mouth at all.

The Moneyball star is still on damage control for comments he made about his marriage to ex-wife Jennifer Aniston.

"I don't know what was pieced together or put together. All I know is that my point was, the best thing I'd done as a father is be sure that my kids have a good mother. That's all I was, or am, trying to say. It has no reference to the past," Pitt says in an interview with Matt Lauer for the Today show, referencing partner Angelina Jolie.

"I think it's a shame that I can't say something nice about Angie without Jen being drug in. You know, she doesn't deserve it." METRO

Brit on the defensive

Britney Spears' former bodyguard Fernando Flores is back with more accusations of child abuse by the pop star.

Flores reportedly filed a new report with the L.A. County Department of Children and Family Services alleging that Spears fed her two sons crabmeat with full knowledge that they both have seafood allergies, adding that when a nanny tried to seek medical attention for the boys afterward, Spears snapped, "Mind your own f—ing business," according to Star magazine.

Before the report was filed, social workers visited Spears' home and found "absolutely no truth to the accusations" and dropped the investigation. METRO

Don't mess with Minka

Minka Kelly

Minka Kelly didn't appreciate a crew member's sense of humour on the set of her new show, Charlie's Angels, when the man in question reportedly came up behind her holding a $100 bill and smacked her rear end, according to Hollyscoop. "It seems like it was meant to be a joke, but clearly it was inappropriate. Minka was shocked and absolutely irate," a source close to the show says. The next day, the staffer reportedly tried to apologize to Kelly, but she responded by slapping him. "The whole set was buzzing about the incident," the source says.

"It was quite a scandal. One day he was there, and the next he was gone." METRO

Scarjo is on the prowl

Scarlett Johansson

The actress was spotted taking a cosy midnight stroll in Paris with Kieran Culkin before flying back to the U.S. together the next day, according to Us Weekly.

But then she's also reportedly been getting friendly with Justin Timberlake, as the pair were spotted "hardcore flirting" at a recent party in New York.

"Other guys were trying to talk with Scarlett, but she was only focused on Justin," a source says, adding that the they partied until 5:30 a.m. before heading back to her midtown penthouse. METRO

Charlie Sheen

Charlie Sheen admits that he's putting a few passed habits behind him.

"A couple of things I don't do well — marriage and drinking. So I've quit both," he says in an interview with Wendy Williams.

"Why would I [marry again]? That's not to say I couldn't have a substantial relationship one day, but to ordain it with a piece of paper just feels like it makes things worse, just for me personally. Because those relationships, I want to say they were pretty good before the marriage and then something happens." METRO

Jewish eats — Mazel tov!

Rosh Hashanah is around the corner In keeping with tradition, this Honey-Thyme Glazed Chicken with Cider Gravy uses seasonal ingredients

You may not think of Jewish cooking as trendsetting, but truth is it has been focused on seasonal recipes sporting local ingredients since long before farmers markets became the darling of the foodie scene. And the Jewish New Year meal, served at Rosh Hashanah, shows this unintended hipness.

Honey-thyme glazed chicken with cider gravy has a sweet autumnal flavour that can be tailored to your region by using a local wildflower honey and a cider made with heirloom apples.

▶ This recipe serves 10.

Ingredients:

- 2 whole chickens (each 1.8 to 2.2 kg or 4 to 5 pounds), giblets discarded
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) olive oil
- Kosher salt, to taste
- Black pepper, to taste
- 20 ml (4 tsp) dried thyme
- 1 large yellow onion, quartered
- 180 ml (3/4 cup) dry white wine
- 180 ml (3/4 cup) water
- 60 ml (4 tbsp) butter
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) honey
- 375 ml (1 1/2 cups) apple cider, divided
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) lemon juice
- 500 ml (2 cups) chicken broth
- 45 ml (3 tbsp) flour

Preparation:

1. Heat oven to 220 C (425 F); oven rack should be middle of oven.
2. Pat chickens dry and rub 15 ml (1 tbsp) of oil over each. Sprinkle inside and outside with salt, pepper and 5 ml (1 tsp) each of the thyme. Stuff each with 2 onion quarters. Tuck wings behind back and tie legs together kitchen twine.
3. Arrange chickens, breast side down, on V-rack set inside roasting pan. Roast until golden, about 45 mins. Remove roasting pan from oven and carefully, using paper towels, flip chickens breast side up. Raise oven temp to 230 C (450 F). Pour wine and water into roasting pan. Return pan to oven and roast until thigh meat registers 74 to 77 C (165 to 170 F), about 1 hour. If pan dries out, add more water 125 ml (1/2 cup) at a time.
4. Glaze: In saucepan over medium heat, combine butter and 10 ml (2 tsp) of thyme. Melt butter and cook, stirring, 5 mins. Add honey and 125 ml (1/2 cup) of apple cider, simmer until glaze thickens and reduces, about 10 mins. Stir in 15 ml (1 tbsp) of lemon juice; set aside.
5. Remove roasting pan from oven and brush chickens with thick layer of glaze and continue to roast until glaze is golden brown, about 10 mins. Transfer chickens to cutting board, brush with the remaining glaze and let rest for 15 mins. before cutting.
6. Cider gravy: Whisk 125 ml (1/2 cup) chicken broth, flour in a bowl until smooth. Set aside.
7. Set roasting pan over 2 burners on medium-high heat. Add remaining cider and bring to boil. Cook, scraping up bits from pan, until liquid reduced by about half, about 5 mins. Add remaining 375 ml (1 1/2 cups) broth. Increase heat to high and return to a boil, whisk often. Boil until liquid reduced by about half, 5 mins.
8. Whisk reserved flour-broth mix into pan. Boil, whisking constantly, until gravy thickens, 3 mins. Remove from heat and pour through sieve into large measuring cup. Stir in remaining 15 ml (1 tbsp) lemon juice and season with salt and pepper, to taste. Serve chicken with cider gravy for passing.

Holiday meaning

While the foods of Rosh Hashanah are most often acknowledged for their emblematic value — apples and honey to represent a sweet year to come — they also are intentionally seasonal for the symbolic and practical reasons of wanting to celebrate the hope of new beginnings by using what you have on hand in early fall.

Wine's kosher side

PETER ROCKWELL
LIQUIDASSETS@EASTLINK.CA
TWITTER: @THEREALWINEGUY

With Rosh Hashanah next week, the sales of kosher wines are sure to increase.

Kosher wines are made with Sabbath-observant Jews present during all aspects of the wine's creation. To be approved as a kosher wine for consumption during Passover, the same applies but there can't be any dough, bread or grain near the winery.

With all those rules, you'd think kosher wines would wind up tasting way too processed. Well, in the past many did. Inferior grapes were often used to make wines that were simple, sweet and inevitably more drinkable by a wider audience of orthodox Jews.

Times have changed, with Israel a leader in kosher wine. Israeli wines are typically rich and textured, with the Yarden 2009 Mount Hermon Red ($16.95 - $22.00) a New World inspired triple-blend that balances its berry burst with a nice undercurrent of ripe tannin.

As good as Israeli wines are, kosher wines are made around the world. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS CANADA. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

This Baby Spinach Salad with Pomegranate Dressing is an ideal side dish for the chicken

This baby spinach salad features a dressing made with pomegranate molasses, which can usually be found in the international (Middle Eastern) section of many larger markets. Alternatively, boil down pomegranate juice until it becomes a honey-like syrup.

Baby spinach continues to be harvested well into the fall and you can add more local flavour by using goat cheese from a farm in your area.

Preparation:

1. In a small bowl, whisk together the olive oil, pomegranate molasses, lemon zest, lemon juice and honey. Season with salt and pepper, then set aside.
2. Divide the spinach evenly between 10 salad plates. Arrange avocado slices and red onion rings over each salad. Sprinkle each with goat cheese. Whisk the dressing to recombine and drizzle over each salad. Top with pomegranate seeds, if desired. Serve.

Cagey 39-year-old looks good in second-straight game after spending year playing overseas

▶ Edmonton's 2011 first-overall draft pick, Ryan Nugent-Hopkins, skates past Aaron Volpatti of the Canucks at Rexall Place Thursday night.

There weren't many familiar names playing for the Vancouver Canucks on Thursday night, but one continues to stand out in the pre-season.

Veteran Owen Nolan started the scoring before Mike Duco scored the winner on a second-period short-handed goal as a relatively no-name Canucks squad showed up a largely veteran Edmonton Oilers team 2-1 in NHL exhibition play.

It was Nolan's second point in two exhibition games for the Canucks (2-1-0) as he attempts to return to the NHL ranks following a year abroad in Switzerland.

"I'm still getting back to the timing and the pace here but I definitely feel that I can keep up," said Nolan, who picked up 26 points in 24 games with Zurich after spending the previous two seasons with the Minnesota Wild. "I have to earn it. I know there are spots, but they are not just going to give me one. I'm trying to work hard and show what I've got."

Vancouver head coach Alain Vigneault said Nolan has looked pretty solid to this point after coming to the team on a professional try-out camp contract.

"The first thing you see is the professionalism he brings every day to the rink," he said. "He knows the game and goes out there and is quick to help out the younger guys. It's just a matter of whether or not he can keep up with the pace."

Jordan Eberle replied for the Oilers (1-2-0), who had roughly 70 per cent of what should be their starting regular-season lineup in the game. The Canucks, meanwhile, iced a roster made up largely from their American Hockey League affiliate, the Chicago Wolves, plus a few veterans on try-out contracts.

Oilers head coach Tom Renney shrugged it off for what it was, a pre-season game.

"We weren't very inspired in the first half of the game," he said. "That was a tough lineup to coach against. But I thought we found our legs a little bit better in the second half of the second and were pretty good in the third. Playing how I think we have to, to have some success."

Vancouver's squad barely qualified for league restrictions on sitting veteran players in exhibition games.

- NHL rules state you have to dress a minimum of nine veterans with 100 games played and/or former first-round draft picks.
- The Canucks met the standard due to the presence of six players on professional try-outs: Manny Legace, Owen Nolan, Anders Eriksson, Steve Begin, Todd Fedoruk and Niko Dimitrakos

Caps will miss playing at Empire Field

After practising outside on a rainy day with a biting wind blowing in from the North Shore Mountains, it would be understandable if the Vancouver Whitecaps were anxious to pack their bags and move indoors at the newly renovated B.C. Place Stadium.

Instead, many of the players were whimsical Thursday about Empire Field, the temporary facility the Whitecaps have used during their first season of Major League Soccer.

"I felt really comfortable here in Empire," said midfielder/forward Davide Chiumiento. "We always had great supporters.

"It was a great moment here to play."

The Whitecaps play their final game at Empire Field on Saturday against the Seattle Sounders. Their first match at B.C. Place, with its retractable roof, will be Oct. 2 against the Portland Timbers.

Vancouver has struggled in its inaugural MLS season,

"I think we built a pretty good understanding of what we are about here."
COACH TOM SOEHN

but Saturday's game still carries significance.

The Whitecaps need a win against the Sounders to remain in contention for the Cascadia Cup, a derby competition between Vancouver, Seattle and Portland.

"We have everything to play for," said midfielder Peter Vagenas. "This tournament is important for the Pacific Northwest and it's important for Vancouver.

"It's well within our grasp. It's not the ideal trophy to be hoisting but we have a chance to hoist a trophy this year, which is important."

Empire Field, located in Vancouver's east end on the Pacific National Exhibition grounds, always looked like something a child would build with a Meccano set.

The seats were metal benches with no backs. All the bathrooms and concession stands were outside the stadium. The players showered and changed in trailers.

There was lots to complain about, but the players rarely did.

"When you go through it, and look back, it will be something you kind of remember," said Vagenas.

Sports in brief

The new era of discipline in the NHL is off to a slick start.

Brendan Shanahan made a strong statement in his first ruling since replacing Colin Campbell, handing Calgary Flames forward Pierre-Luc Letourneau-Leblond a five-game suspension Thursday and accompanying it with a video explanation.

The 75-second video was posted on the NHL's website and featured Shanahan explaining how Letourneau-Leblond violated the league's new boarding rule when he hit Vancouver Canucks forward Matt Clackson from behind on Tuesday night.
